LOGAN, CACHE COUNTY, UTAH SATURDAY JANUARY 8 1916

THIRTEENTH YEAR

TABERNACLE COMPLETED AFTER A THOROUGH REMODELING THROUGHOUT

Stake Presidency has arranged for Grand Musical Concert for Friday afternoon and evening, January 14. What has been done to building.

The stake Tabernacle, Logan's large church edifice, which has been out of use for several months, owing to the fact that the building has been undergoing a remodeling, is once more ready for public use again, the entire interior of the building has been remodeled. The first affair to be held in the tabernacle January 14, at which time the stake officers have arranged for a grand musical concert, consisting of local and imported talent. An afternoon and evening performance will be given on that date. The proceeds of the concert will go to assist in defraying the expense of reconstructing the building.

The building had been condemned on account of insufficient exists. The galleries had no exits on the east end at all. While the changing of the exits was compulsory, it was thought the proper thing to modernize the entire building and we give herewith a description of the work that has been done on our stake building:

The main stairs instead of being eight feet in width are now 16.5 feet. The side stairs or west exits from the gallery were originally 4 feet in width, with the landing at the extreme west end and on a higher level than the new stairs. These stairs are now six feet in width and terminate directly at the front doors. The rear stairs are now fully 7 feet in width and in direct line to the doors without any turns. All the stairs are of reinforced concrete with mason safety tread and cork carpet treads.

The choir stand has been changed to circular lines, closing the entrance on the east. Upholstered opera chairs take the place of the old wooden benches. The rock walls under the tower originally projecting in the west gallery have been removed, the upper walls are held in place by heavy steel beams encased in concrete, the posts are 12 inches steel channel and plate columns. This new space is provided with seats and will be the best part of the gallery. All exit doors are provided with panic bolts, no doors can be locked from the inside. The electric lighting system has been entirely reconstructed, every line is in conduit, except the circuits in the attic which are accessible at any time. The circuits are controlled from the boiler room as well as from the cabinet in the dressing room.

The ceiling has been changed to an ornamental plaster ceiling with the panels covered with sheating and then painted. All wainscots in the halls and stairs are sheating and then painted. The heating has been reconstructed, additional radiation having been placed on the west end and the radiators have been removed from the center of the hall.

A ventilating system has been installed with a large fan in the boiler room, taking the air through the registers in front of the stand into a 2 1/2 feet by 4 feet galvanized iron duct on the ceiling of the basement then through the fan into the exhaust which terminates above the roof of the vestry. This system will change the air in the auditorium approximately twice every hour and should eliminate the custom of opening the windows. The duct is so arranged that the basement can also be ventilated.

It is the intention to paint the outside of the building. The tower, cornices and windows, together with the stone trimming around the windows, will be painted white to harmonize with the terra cotta entrance.

The tabernacle with these changes has been remodeled in such a way that it should serve the purposes of Cache stake for a long time.

The contractors on this work were Olaf Nelson, J. E. Coult & Son, for the painting; Alfred Palmer & Sons for the heating and ventilating; The Logan City Municipal Electric Plant installed the electric fixtures. The architect was K. C. Schaub.

BLUNDERS IN WAR MANAGEMENT CAUSE

BREACH IN BRITISH POLITICAL TRUCE

The United Kingdom now witnesses a general abandonment of the truce between the political parties, which was observed during the early months of the war and which apparently was cemented for the duration of the war when the coalition government was formed. There is a steady growth of the newspaper attacks on the government, the general burden of which is the slowness, the lack of foresight and decision, and the mismanagement of the Dardanelles enterprises. While all newspapers disclaim partisan motives, all the more prominent journals participating in the opposition belong to the Conservative party, with the exception of the Manchester Guardian. The newspapers generally hold Premier Asquith responsible for the conduct of affairs. The Lord Northcliffe group, headed by the Times and the Daily Mail, now as heretofore the most bitter critics of the Asquith government, with the support of the Morning Post, was joined by the Observer, which is the foremost Sunday paper of London, and the Referee, which has a large following among the masses. David Lloyd-George is the leading candidate advanced for succession, but other prominent Britons, such as Viscount Haldane, former secretary of state for war; Lord Curzon, former viceroy of India, were also mentioned. In the pictures No. 1 is Lord Northcliffe; No. 2, Lord Haldane; No. 3, Lord Curzon; No. 4, Lloyd-George; No. 5, Asquith.

ANSWER WANTED BY SCHOOLMAN AND TAXPAYER

In the article "The Tax Question, by One Who Knows," published in the last issue of the Republican ex-Commissioner Cronquist makes the statement that, "The best facts we have shown conclusively that more than 80 per cent of the tax money goes to the schools."

In a very excellent and instructive talk on the question, "The part of the tax money used for school purposes," given by County Supt. R. V. Larsen, in the taxpayers convention a very accurate statement was given. This statement found space in both Logan papers. The talk was characterized by facts, the proof of which was clearly given. It was thought hardly conceivable that such a statement as the one referred to in the last issue, would appear, especially under the label of facts.

If the writer of the above mentioned article is in possession of proof for his assertions, that would make them facts, would he kindly publish them thereby giving us something substantial on which to base our conclusions.

SOUTH CACHE HIGH SCHOOL NEWS NOTES

Hyrum, Jan. 3.—

School reopened after two weeks vacation. Present indications of the faculty and students show the harmonious attitude for the school advancement and making 1916 a banner year. An advisory system has been adopted, taken from the Bosie High School and revised to suit the needs of the school.

The system of rules are carefully considered and executed by the faculty, although entirely new it will undoubtedly prove one of the greatest movements in bringing the teacher, student and parent, together in a more sympathetic and closer relationship of school progression.

The rules as adopted by the South Cache High School.

1. To become as familiar as possible with the scholastic record of every pupil assigned to his advisory before time for the term enrollment to begin.

2. To become so intimately acquainted with each pupils environments, his likes and dislikes, his ambitions and desires, that vocational guidance may be given intelligently.

3. To become acquainted as nearly as possible with the parents of all his advisory and consult with the parents, either by visit or letter,

The game will be played on the Wellsville floor and this should aid Wellsville also. There will be a grand ball after the game in honor of the visitors. The game will be called at 8:30. Come and see the best game of the season.
